Holmdel Schools tap Amanda LaMoglia as Director of Special Education

(Holmdel October 27, 2021) – The Holmdel Township School District has announced the hiring of Amanda LaMoglia, to serve as its new Director of Special Education.

LaMoglia, who earned a Bachelor's degree and a Master's Degree in Special Education from Kean University, has extensive experience providing administrative and special education services in several school districts throughout the state. She began her career as a Special education teacher and then became certified as a Learning Disabilities Teacher Consultant (LDTC). Ms. LaMoglia became a member of the Child Study Team (CST) in the South Brunswick Public Schools, then became the Elementary Special Education Supervisor, ARRA Project Manager and finally the Middle School Special Education Supervisor. After 12 years in South Brunswick, Ms. LaMoglia became Supervisor of Special Education in Middletown and then Director of Special Education. Five years later, Ms. LaMoglia became Director of Special Services in Dunellen.

Ms. LaMoglia has extensive experience in Special Education teaching, learning, and Administration. In addition to Special Education services, Ms. LaMoglia has been responsible for associated grants, reporting, related services, implementation of Special Education programs and various professional development programs.

"The Director of Special Education is such a critically important role in our school district. We are excited to have this opportunity to bring in someone with such an impressive background and extensive experience in this specific area of education," said Holmdel Board of Education President Vicky Flynn. "We are confident that Ms. LaMoglia will prove to be an excellent addition to our school district and we wish her the best of luck in her new position," added Flynn.
