

Satz Flutist Renee Whittemore Wins MTNA Junior Woodwind Competition

Congratulations to Satz flutist Renee Whittemore for winning the Music Teachers National Association Junior Woodwind Eastern Division!! She will participate in the MTNA National Competition in Reno, Nevada on March 24-26th.

Renée E. Whittemore is 13 years old and lives in Holmdel, New Jersey. She is currently a member of the NJYS Youth Orchestra. Renée was honored to perform in the CJMEA Intermediate Wind Ensemble (2022), and the All Shore Intermediate Band (2020, 2022), in which she received the John Carr Award for Outstanding Musicianship (2022). Renée was the Second Place prize winner in the Flute Society of Greater Philadelphia Junior Youth Artist Competition (2022). Renée's teachers include Amy Tu and Chi Lin.

The MTNA National Competitions are the most successful and prestigious competitions in the country. Thousands of students compete for prizes and national recognition. The competition recognizes exceptionally talented young artists and their teachers in their pursuit of musical excellence.

There are three-tiers of the competition: Junior, Senior and Young Artist Performance. The competition starts at state level. The winners of each state's competitions will advance to a video-only division competition. Those winners compete in the national finals at the annual MTNA National Conference which will be held in Reno, Nevada this year.

<https://www.mtna.org/MTNA/Engage/Competitions/Competitions.aspx>